FFC SK and SHF Awards of Distinction & SHF Volunteer Recognition Award

Do you know someone who is making a difference within the equine industry and deserves to receive recognition for their efforts? Nominate them for the Awards of Excellence!

People familiar with Saskatchewan's equine industry are invited to nominate individuals, organizations and companies for awards recognizing excellence in animal welfare and health.

Farm & Food Care SK (FFC SK) and Saskatchewan Horse Federation (SHF) are once again partnering to present the 'Awards of Distinction for Equine Welfare' during the Saskatchewan Horse Federation AGM. "The Awards of Distinction for Equine Welfare recognize dedication to the equine Industry, while serving as a reminder of the importance of exceptional care," says Krissy Fiddler, SHF Executive Director. "Farm & Food Care Saskatchewan and SHF both see recognizing dedicated riders, owners, drivers and others within the provincial equine industry as fitting our interest in advancing responsible animal care," says Adele Buettner, CEO of FFC SK.

FFC Location key issue in assessing wounds

By Brenden Van Wyk

Horses can suffer from all types of wounds, and while some wounds look much worse than others, the primary assessment of their severity is the same as that of gauging housing prices: location, location, location.

This claim is backed by Dr. Suzanne Mund, a master's degree student in the Western College of Veterinary Medicine's Department of Large Animal Clinical Sciences. Her research focus is on wound healing through the use of stem cells.
